Real-World Results

The program is academically rigorous, presenting a full schedule of lectures, team discussions, and guest speakers during the day, and group projects and study in the evenings. Each module consists of four to five courses, and classroom time is balanced with site visits and guest speakers, allowing you to enrich and apply your local learning.

The program includes real-world projects that address challenging business problems. Students have been able to advance important organizational and business process improvements and assume new opportunities as a result of projects completed during the program.

The interplay of work and learning is one of the major strengths of the Rotman Global Executive MBA program, which allows you to maintain your career in your home country while you study.

At the end of each module and the completion of final assignments, preparation begins for the next set of courses, with study materials delivered a month or two before class begins.

Our Numbers

The Rotman School attracts senior managers and executives aiming to grow their leadership on the global stage. The strength of the Rotman brand and the power of your alumni network will position you for lifelong success.

PROGRAM STRUCTURE

Each module consists of four to five courses, and classroom time is balanced with site visits and guest speakers, allowing you to enrich and apply your local learning.

Modules and Inter-Modules

Modules take place on the campus of one of our international affiliate academic partners. Each module offers a packed schedule of courses, guest speakers, company visits and networking events, along with other dynamic, real-time learning opportunities. Your evenings are filled with group projects, individual assignments and time to explore the local sites. The inter-module modules is the time to relax, review study materials delivered a month or two before class begins. The personal leadership modules is a unique, assertive, and practical learning experience. This is your time to complete major group projects and complete online review sessions and exams. You will also have an opportunity to catch up with work, family and friends.
