Build and sustain success in a fast-changing economy.

Think a winning strategy requires an expensive outside consultant?

Think again. You might already have everything you need in your organization to build and sustain competitive advantage.

Making good strategic decisions is critical to any leader's success. In Rotman's Strategy & Competitive Advantage program, we'll break down the components of a strategy and show you how a carefully designed strategy provides a blueprint for smart decisions.

In two half-day virtual sessions, you'll prepare yourself to identify and exploit sources of competitive advantage. Working with a class of other professionals, our faculty will help you develop the analytical skills and vision to

- » understand and predict industry trends
- » anticipate and plan for competition, and
- » sustain corporate success in a fast-changing global economy.

Sharpen your analytical skills, learn how to capitalize on growth opportunities and avoid strategic mistakes.

Benefits:

- » Identify and assess the essential parts of any strategy
- » Gain valuable insight from the successes and failures of respected firms and the issues they face looking forward
- » Strengthen your ability to assess whether a strategy is likely to lead to superior performance
- » Test business decisions through the lens of your firm's strategy
